Strange Recovery of Two Presumably Stolen Bicycles.

Last evening two ladies' bicycles were recovered by the police in a rather unusual manner. Near the corner of College avenue and Seventh street two citizens stepped suddenly into the street and at the same time two wheelmen jumped from their wheels and fled. The wheels no doubt were stolen and it is thought that the riders mistook the citizens for patrolmen. The license numbers of the two machines are 2746 and 2747, indicating that they be-

REPUBLICANS MEET IN MASSES TO ELECT COMMITTEEMEN.

Few Contests and Much Enthusiasn Shown-Call for Organization in Criminal Court Room To-Night.

The interest manifested in the city primaries last night was more than encouraging to the party leaders. It showed that the great victory of last year had not sated the party, and that in the city cempaign the enemy will be shown a contest which will command their greatest admiration and homage. The returns from precincts show that the Republica hosts turned out in large numbers and manifested a spirit of harmony that justified a lively enthusiasm. While the storm was at its height Laffey became storm was at its height Laffey became deathly sick, and it was throught that he would die before medical attention could be summoned. There was a great deal of excitement in the neighborhood, and the rumor spread that Laffey had been struck by lightning. Notwithstanding the downpour a large crowd gathered about the house and listened to Laffey's moans of pain. They all thought lightning was the cause of his agony. Dr. J. B. Long was summoned and he soon ascertained that the pain was due to something beside lightning. Laffey was asked what he had taken and he told of the salts. An examination was made and it was learned that he had taken from a package containing bug taken from a package containing bug poison, and the amount as measured by the customary dose of the medicine must have been large. THE DROUGHT BROKEN

TERRIFIC RAIN, HAIL, THUNDER AND LIGHTNING STORM.

Streets Flushed and Streams Filled-Still Short in Rainfall-Break Party Drenched.

Yesterday was a very warm day, and it seemed much warmer than it really was because of the humidity of the atmosphere. An approaching storm could be felt in the air, for it was close and stifling. The mercury climbed up to 94.4 degrees and everybody suffered from the oppressive heat. Urb Edwards, a workman on the streets, was overcome while at the corner of Virginia avenue and Buchanan street. Dr. Clark, of the City Dispensary, conveyed him to his home, No. 505 West Washington street. There were a number of prostrations during the day, but no serious cases are reported. Out in the country the corn could almost be seen to grow. The heat of yesterday, following the rains of the last few days, was highly beneficial to vegetation. Even the grass brightened. There is an old English saying to the effect that if it rains after sundown upon the 15th of July, it will rain each day for forty days thereafter. John Ridd, in "Lorna Doone," calls attention to this old saying. There is damage, but which spent its force in a downpour of rain. The rain was followed by hail, which might have been as large as hen eggs, but which were no larger than small marbles. Little damage was done by the hail. The strong wind which blew did some damage by blowing down small trees and breaking branches. The rain was blown under doors and windows as it came with such great force that it was impossible to keep it out. The asphalt streets were washed clean and the gutters were filled to overflowing with muddy water. On North Capitol avenue, near Twelfth street, some injury was done by the water. A sewer is under way there and the water did not have its usual way of escape. It backed into cellars, filled the street from curb to curb in some places, and washed out a section of sidewalk. The small streams about the city were filled, but there was nothing like a flood. The sight was a very uncommon one for 1895. The storm came from the southwest and broke over the city about 6:30 o'clock. The rain was heaviest in the business portion. A few miles northwest of the city there was no rain. The lightning struck but in one place, so far as known, and that was a barn at No. 241 West Maryland street, owned by Dennis Sullivan. The fire department responded in the soaking rain. The damage was small. The rainfall for the vicinity amounted to three-quarters of an inch and it all came within a half hour's time. There is still a deficiency of one and one-half inches in the normal fall for the month, and of fifteen inches since January. The indications are for more rain, so that the deficiency is likely to be overcome. During the storm the mercury took a drop to 66 degrees, but rose in a short time to 76 degrees, and during the evening it became warm again. A case was reported of lightning striking the near Fairview Park. a blinding flash, a loud report and a thoroughly frightened motorman. Case of Discipline and a Redisposition of Funds Their Business. The Board of Safety yesterday heard the evidence in regard to the charges against patrolmen W. O. The defense of the men was that after going to the engine house to eat their lunches they remained that they unconsciously dropped into a doze just as the sergeant discovered them. Perkins was once released "for the good of the service," but the board became satisfied that there is no good reason why Perkins cannot make an active and faithful fireman. At his own request he will be assigned to one of the most active of the companies. The board decided to ask the controller to recommend to the City Council that $4,000 be transferred from the fireman's pay roll fund to the hose fund; and that $200 be transferred from the station house secret service fund to the station house feed fund. The reason that the pay roli of the fire department will stand such a cut is that in the making of estimates at the first of the year it was supposed that the three new fire station would be in active use right away, but th time has passed and the stations cannot now be equipped much before the close of the year. In the meantime the department stands in need of more hose.

He wanted the board to consider a petition filed July 8, asking for asphalt pavement. Mr. Holton informed the attorney that the board was originally in favor of asphalt, but had yielded to what it thought was a wish of the management. jority of the property owners, and had decided upon a wood block pavement. There is now one colored company in the department, having five members out of a total of 118 men in the department. The colored eligibles say that under the present arrangement there is very little chance of getting a place in the fire department.

DELEGATION OF SALOON MEN MAKE REPORT TO CHIEF POWELL.

They Want Clubs Brought Under the Same Restrictions as Themselves-Beams and the Mote.

The Nicholson law has had the rather unexpected result of uniting the saloon keepers and Superintendent Powell to see that the law is obeyed. Instead of fighting the law, as anticipated, the saloon keepers' association of this city is taking steps to see that it is enforced. The Journal of Monday referred to the watch kept by the saloon men upon all violators, and yesterday a committee of saloon men called upon Superintendent Powell and made known to him some of the observations made by them last Sunday. The committee assured the superintendent that they would made strenuous efforts to prevent drug stores from violating the law, and they would do all ney could to break up the clubs organize $6.04; the Talbott Paving Company, $6.10. for the express purpose of getting around their room piled high with samples on a few detectives investigating the violations for the express purpose of getting around a few detectives investigating the violations of the law, and they gave the superintendent what information they had. Mr. Powell informed the committee that he would be glad to have their co-operation in bringing all violators of the law to justice. But at the same time he candidly told the saloon men that they should take the beam out of their own eyes and he would try to pluck the mote out of the eyes of violators of the law. The committee talked regarding the sale of liquor at the Commercial Club, the Deutsche Haus, the Columbia Club and the Cleveland Club. In the quarters of the last-named club, it is claimed, the sales for last Sunday amounted to $110 The liquor sold was beer, and it is said that anybody could make purchases if vouched for by a member of the club. Mr. Powell informed the saloon men that in his mind the sale of liquor in clubs furin the chairs to rest a few moments, and nished the most knotty question that has arisen under the law. He is waiting for a decision hase of the law, and he said it was not fair to compel one set of liquor dealers to obey the law to the letter, allowing others to violate it. The Commercial Club case do so. Mr. Powell assured them that the administration of the law would be carried out in its true spirit, and the saloon men understand by all that was said that attention is to be given drug steres and clubs.

Superintendent Powell has learned of several very clever ways of violating the law. One of these ways was worked last Sunday. Liquor was sold inside popcorn balls, and it was put up in four-ounce bottles. Ten cents bought a drink, with the popcorn thrown in This arrangement was corn thrown in. This arrangement was used by several stores which are run in connection with saloons. Another method of defeating the law is by the sale of small bottles containing liquor, which are sold on the streets. A man goes forth with his pockets filled with these bottles, and he sells his goods to crowds standing on cor ners or loafing around saloons. There are several of these walking saloons reported to have been about last Sunday.
